

Digital Infrastructure in Germany: Enterprises Continue to Have Unmet Needs

More than a quarter of German enterprises are still dissatisfied with digital infrastructure at their company location

Expansion of digital infrastructure and up-take of digital services: Enterprises require investment incentives

Source:

All data is based on an online survey by YouGov Deutschland AG. 517 respondents took part in the survey between 22 and 27 March 2017. The results have been weighted by the ratio of employees to company size and are representative for German corporate decision makers under the ratio of employees to company size.